

Terms of Service

Magic Rush · Effective 19 October 2026 · magic-rush.com · support@overflowstudio.com

These terms govern your use of Magic Rush, a web application at magic-rush.com operated by Magic Rush (“we”, “us”). By creating an account or subscribing, you agree to them. If you do not agree, do not use the service.

Plain summary: we queue AI image and video prompts for you, we pay the generation providers and meter your plan, and you own what you make.

1. What the service is

Magic Rush is a batch queue for AI generation. You paste a list of prompts; the service submits them to third-party AI providers, retries failures, and files the results. You do not install anything — it runs in a browser tab.

The queue runs in your browser. If you close the tab the run stops. A refresh is safe: the queue is saved and resumes where it left off. This is stated in the product and is not a defect.

2. Accounts

You need an account to use the studio. You may register with an email address and password, or sign in with Google.

Passwords are hashed with scrypt and a per-user salt. We never store your password in a form we can read, and we cannot recover it for you.

You are responsible for activity under your account and for keeping your credentials secure.

3. Plans, allowance and generation

Paid plans include a monthly allowance of images and of video seconds. The allowance is consumed as you generate and resets each billing period.

New accounts receive a free trial of fifteen images and one four-second video. The trial is offered once per person and is not renewable by creating further accounts.

Generation is included in your plan. We hold the provider credentials and call the provider on your behalf; you are not required to obtain an API key. Section 4 explains what that means for your data.

We may substitute an equivalent provider to deliver a job. Quality and availability depend on those third parties and are not guaranteed.

4. Bring-your-own provider keys

You may optionally store your own API key for a supported provider. If you do, jobs run against your key and are not counted against your allowance.

Keys are encrypted before storage using AES-256-GCM. We hold the encryption secret, which means we are technically able to decrypt a stored key. We do not do so except to make the provider call you asked for. If that is not acceptable, do not store a key and use the plan allowance instead.

Using your own key means your relationship and billing with that provider are yours alone. Their terms govern that usage.

5. Your content

You keep all rights to the prompts you submit and to the outputs generated. We claim no ownership of either.

We do not review prompts before submission. You are responsible for them and for ensuring you have the right to use any input you supply.

You must not use the service to generate unlawful content, to infringe copyright or trademark, or in breach of the provider's own acceptable-use policy. Providers may refuse a prompt and that refusal is outside our control.

6. Acceptable use

- Do not attempt to evade the allowance, farm trial credits, or share one account between multiple people.
- Do not resell or redistribute access without our written permission.
- Do not probe, overload or attempt to reverse-engineer the service.
- Do not use it to create content that is unlawful where you are.

We may suspend an account that breaks these rules. Where a suspension is for abuse rather than a mistake, no refund is due.

7. Availability and changes

The service is provided as-is. We do not guarantee uptime, and third-party provider outages are outside our control.

We may change features, limits or pricing. Material changes to an active plan take effect at your next renewal, and we will tell you beforehand.

8. Liability

To the extent the law allows, our total liability arising from the service is limited to the amount you paid us in the three months before the claim.

We are not liable for indirect or consequential loss, including lost profits or lost content. Keep your own copies of anything you cannot regenerate — provider output links expire.

9. Termination

You may stop using the service and cancel at any time; see the Cancellation Policy. We may terminate for material breach of these terms.

On termination your account is closed and your stored data is deleted in line with the Privacy Policy.

10. Governing law and contact

These terms are governed by the laws of the State of Delaware, United States.

Questions: support@overflowstudio.com.